

Butterflies & Moths

The Peacock Butterfly Inachis io

- when alarmed flashes its eyes and rubs its wings together to "hiss"
- hibernates in hollow trees, sheds and woodpiles and lays its eggs under nettle leaves in May

- the caterpillar lives and feeds among webs spun over nettle tops
- the chrysalis hangs from a silken pad for 2 weeks, colour depends on surroundings, and the butterfly emerges in July

Others to look out for in May

Brimstone

Large White

Orange Tip

Speckled Wood

Common Blue

Small Blue

Painted Lady

Red Admiral

