

AUTUMN

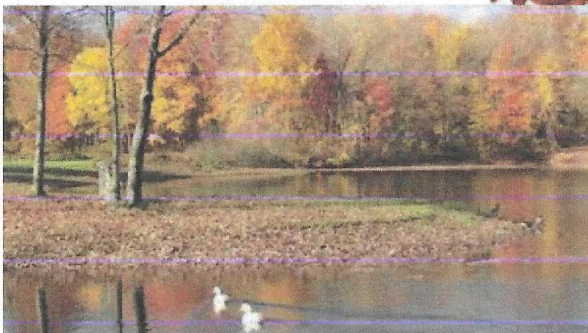

And last of all here are Sarah Coleridge's months, in case you were wondering what had happened to them!

Warm September brings the fruit;
Sportsmen then begin to shoot.

Fresh October brings the pheasant;
Then to gather nuts is pleasant.

National Nut Day? 22 October

Dull November brings the blast;
Then the leaves are whirling fast.

Chill December brings the sleet,
Blazing fire, and Christmas treat.

AUTUMN

*Since you went away the days grow long
And soon I'll hear old winter's song
But I miss you most of all my darling
When autumn leaves start to fall*

1945 Jazz Composer: Joseph Kosma

Original French lyrics: Jacques Prévert translated into English: Johnny Mercer

The season of the year that begins on 23 September and ends on 22 December. It marks the end of summer but is over by the winter solstice and our longer daylight hours begin!!!

It's the time of Harvest Festivals and Hallowe'en, and the light festivals – Divalli, Bonfire and Fireworks Night, lights and candles as it gets nearer to Winter and Christmas.

It got its name from the ancient Etruscan autu which became the Latin Autumnus. The alternative name, the Fall, derives from old Germanic languages and by 16th century it had replaced the old name Harvest and became the name of the season in England. The "fall of the leaf" as opposed to the "spring of the leaf". And don't forget it used to be called backend in my Northern England.

During the 17th century, English emigration to the British colonies in North America was at its peak, and the new settlers took the English language with them. While the term Fall gradually became nearly obsolete in Britain, it became the more common term in North America.
