

March in the Park

A quick run through the park in March – and things to look out for!

In the hedges and edges

Sticky buds on the horse chestnuts

Blackthorn blossom

Pussy Willow in the sunshine
and in close up

And two flowers at the bottom of the railings by the path to Nielsens

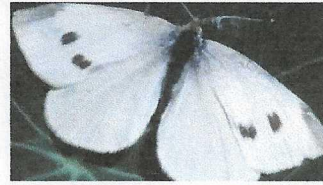

Ground Ivy

and Chickweed

March in the Park

Butterflies If we ever get any warm days

A Peacock and a flash of white probably a Cabbage White

Buds

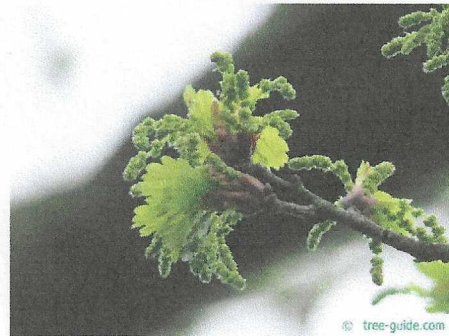

Definitely keep an eye out for these budding leaves and don't forget

*Oak before Ash we're in for a splash
But Ash before Oak we're in for a soak!!*

Ash

Oak

Birds

Have you seen the Great Spotted Woodpecker with its bouncing flight?

Or heard it establishing its territory this spring by drumming on dead branches and trunks and telegraph poles?

Or heard its loud call which when it quickens into a dry excited rattle sounds as if it's laughing!

The Green Woodpecker has a similar rattle laugh but spends much of its time close to the ground in search of ants.

Flies close to the ground – you might see it fly straight across the field.

March in the Park

Even more further along!

White dead nettle and Self heal and some old daisies and groundsel as well

On the bank by the gate and in the woodland

Celandines

And in the woodland as well

Together with a garden escapee

Hellebore

During the winter there was a snowdrop and a crocus

Look out next year!
